

A wooden garden bench with a pointed, lattice-work roof, surrounded by greenery and a pond. The bench is made of light-colored wood and features a large, arched opening in the center. The roof is made of a lattice of small squares. Inside the bench, there are two light green cushions and two colorful patterned pillows. A small, round, stone table sits on a pedestal in front of the bench. The bench is flanked by two large, corrugated metal planters filled with green plants. In the foreground, there is a long, narrow, rectangular pond filled with water and lily pads. The background is filled with lush green trees and a brick building.
